CITY HALL NEXT WEEK

The Board of Aldermen Will Meet Monday Night.

SPEEDWAY RESOLUTION

Loophole in the Action of Grounds and Buildings Committee Large Enough to Drive Horse and Buggy Through.

Monday—Committee on Electricity, 8 o'clock; Carnegie Library Board, 6 o'clock.
Tuesday—Board of Aldermen, 8 o'clock.
Wednesday—Subcommittee on Health, 8 o'clock.
Thursday—Committee on Health, 8 o'clock; subcommittee on transfers, 8 o'clock.

Such is the schedule of Councilmanic meetings outlined for this week.

Indications point to a rather dull week in City Hall circles, despite the fact that the Board of Aldermen will hold its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night, and in addition several committees will get together.

The Board will probably be in session for some time, as much routine business has accumulated, but no matters of importance or special interest will be considered unless Major O'Way, S. Allen, brings up his scheme for instituting an investigation of the body with a view to ascertain if there has been any corruption among the members.

As will be remembered, the Common Council defeated a resolution from the Board, requesting the Legislature to amend the charter of the city as to give a committee of either branch such powers as are now enjoyed by a joint body from the Board and the lower branch.

As a result of this it would be useless to have appointed a committee from the Board to push an investigation, but it would be competent for the Board to use its best efforts to have the charter amended, despite the fact that the Common Council does not look with favor upon the scheme. It is not known whether any effort along this line will be made, Major Allen refusing to discuss the question.

If the statements and opinions of the attorneys who are members of the City Council are to be relied upon as correct, they generally are that the Board amendment, adopted by the Grounds and Buildings Committee last Thursday night, which requires that the speedway at Reservoir Park shall not be used on the Sabbath for the purpose of tests of speed or racing, is of no effect. In a word, it is contended that the amendment leaves a loophole which is quite large enough for a horse and buggy to pass through.

While the amendment apparently covers the point desired by its framers, namely, the prohibition of the use of the speedway on the Sabbath, it is the opinion of Alderman John B. Minor and Councilman Gilbert K. Pollock, both of whom are well-known lawyers, that any citizen may continue to use the race course on the Sabbath, even if the Council adopts the amendment and it finally becomes a law.

The wording of the amendment, it seems, leaves a big hole, and practically nullifies its efficiency. It says that the speedway shall be open every day of the week except Sunday for the purpose of speed and racing. It says nothing about jogging, running, trotting, pacing or walking, and lastly, does not say that the course shall not be used at all for any purpose on the Sabbath.

City Attorney Pollard seems inclined to view the amendment as does Mr. Minor and Mr. Pollock, holding that it is entirely a question of grammar, and not law. In other words, he thinks it is up to the keeper of the speedway to interpret the amendment according to his construction of the grammar.

However, it is probable that Mr. Bottom will strengthen his amendment when the matter comes up for consideration in the Common Council.

It is hardly probable that the Carnegie Library Board will take any action at their meeting to-morrow afternoon, as they have no duties to perform and are now awaiting the action of the Council on their application for money sufficient to purchase a site for the proposed library.

Messrs. Curtis, Butterfield and O'Neil will hold a meeting Wednesday night to consider the charges of incompetency preferred against Mr. E. O'Grady, clerk to the Board of Health.

A SPECIAL SERMON TO DRUIDS TO-NIGHT

The Rev. G. Otis Moore, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, corner Twenty-third and Venable Streets, will to-night preach a special sermon to Jefferson Grove, No. 11, and Jefferson Circle, No. 12.

The Druids of the city are invited to join with Jefferson Grove and attend in a body the divine worship.
The Grove will meet in Springfield Hall, Twenty-sixth and M Streets, at 7:15 P.M., and march to the church.
During the past six months the Druids of this jurisdiction have been forging ahead in membership, and before the

THOUSANDS OF POUNDS

Tons of Butter Lying Idle in Cold Storage Now.

A MISTAKE OF CONGRESS

Passed a Law Through Lack of Knowledge That Has Fostered the Production of Oleomargarine and Butterine.

Complete demoralization rules in the local butter market as a result of the development of the rather remarkable fact that the recent law directed against oleomargarine, so far from proving effective in its operation, has turned out to be highly beneficial to the manufacturers of the adulterated food. Strange as it may seem, the congressional statute, which went into effect a few months ago and which was expected to make an end of the production of butterine, is the very thing which has now resulted in a more extensive and profitable manufacture of it than ever before.

Incident to this state of affairs, country butter, the product of the farms of Virginia, Tennessee and West Virginia, is a glut on the market and is being sold, it is said at all, at a disadvantage. The Richmond trade is distinctly demoralized and in the large majority of cases produce men are overstocked with stuff which it is simply impossible to move, when the retailers are handling butterine, which sells so much more readily than the adoption of the new oleo law several local speculators laid in large supplies of pure butter, expecting a firm winter market. The loss to them will be heavy. It is estimated that there are in cold storage here as much as 50,000 pounds of butter, which are a dead weight and which will have to be disposed of at the loss of several cents on the pound.

Before the last act of Congress the law governing the production and sale of oleomargarine provided that manufacturers should pay a tax of something like 2 cents per pound for the privilege of coloring their butter to make it look like real butter. They paid the tax and put the oleo on the market and sold it considerably under the price of pure butter. The manufacturers dealt directly with the retailers and did not employ commission men. The retailers had to pay a license of $45 in order to sell.

Now comes along the new law. It was thought that oleomargarine without coloring would present a dirty, unhealthy looking hue, which would drive it out of the market, and hence manufacturers were informed that for 1-cent per pound they could continue to put it out, provided they didn't use coloring. If they wished to do the latter they would have to pay 16 cents per pound, a tax practically prohibitory, for the cost of production of oleomargarine would then necessitate a selling price equal or above that of butter. Produce men were jubilant and looked forward to a big butter trade, with buttering out of the way.

As indicated, several local merchants, by way of speculating, bought up a lot of country butter—probably 50,000 pounds—and put it away on cold storage until they could bring it out and sell it at the fancy figures expected to prevail.

But results altogether change the aspect of the situation. Oleomargarine, without coloring, in its natural state, does not present a dirty and unhealthy-looking hue. Instead of that it is just the opposite. The rolls are light cream and are almost indistinguishable from country butter. The manufacturers began to turn it out in large quantities, and because the new law was really the best thing they had ever gotten. They had to pay but one-quarter of a cent per pound tax, whereas under the old law, when they colored the stuff, it cost them a quarter of a cent. Moreover, retailers who wanted to sell uncolored oleomargarine (expected to be unsightly) could get a license for $6.

Has the Field.
A month or two ago, when real butter was rather high and scarce, and, therefore, was selling at a high price, a large number of retail men took out licenses and have since been selling uncolored butter, which they get directly from the manufacturers, and not through commission men, and which they sell at a considerably less price than they had to pay for the genuine article. To-day this state of affairs is more marked than ever, and hence the demoralization on the market.

Here Virginia and Tennessee butter is coming in, but it won't sell at eighteen and twenty cents wholesale when butterine is going at cheaper than that retail. Commission merchants are overstocked and the trade is glutted.

Butterine is a thing to be lusting and is fully enjoying the peculiar effect of the law. A conservative estimate made yesterday by a well-known commission merchant fixes the amount of butterine used here today at eight per cent of the entire consumption in Richmond. Produce men are clear out of it, and farmers can make nothing by churning. Prices on Virginia butter, when it is sold at all, have dropped from eighteen and twenty cents to twelve and a half and fifteen cents. One merchant sold 2,500 pounds in one lot yesterday at twelve and a half cents.

What Mr. Evans Says.
When questioned yesterday about the matter, Mr. E. W. Evans, of the firm of Evans and Company, gave the facts detailed above. The fact that butterine is adulterated and hence not considered wholesome or healthful is, according to Mr. Evans, the chief objection to it. Apart from this it is just as good as country butter.

"The butter market," he added in conclusion, "is in a worse condition than it ever saw it. Everybody is overstocked and nobody can move his stuff. It simply won't sell. Butterine has the field of it, and I have reason to believe that there are in cold storage here 50,000 pounds of real butter which will have to be sold at a big loss, all because the law turned out to be just the opposite from what we expected it to be."

IN FAYETTEVILLE

Cumberland County Wishes to Issue Bonds for Road Making.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., February 7.—Cumberland county asks the present Legislature for authority to issue $40,000 in bonds bearing 5 per cent. interest, to run thirty years, for the construction and improvement of the county roads. The Atlantic Coast Line Railroad tax, bringing in $2,300, is regarded as a good guarantee for taking care of the interest on these bonds and providing a sinking fund for their payment at maturity. The design is to issue only $10,000 of the bonds annually, not to bear interest until they are marketed. The county wishes the roads by the chain-gang convict system.

Two of the circumstances connected with Utley's voluntary surrender to the authorities and his return to jail yesterday show that he himself anticipated no such tame ending of the big sensation of his break for liberty. Utley, after he emerged from the jail the darkness first confused him, and then he was so dazzled by the glare of the electric lights that he lost his bearings. His plan was to make for the passenger station, on upper Hay Street, and board the South-bound train at 1 o'clock in the morning. Instead he went east, found himself in the vicinity of the Holt-Williamson cotton mill, and skidded the town, probably going south by Mineral Spring.

Again, John McGirt, the Robeson county farmer, to whom Utley surrendered himself, states that besides the inevitable pistol, the latter handed over to him a very large sum of money; he declines to say how much. These things would indicate that the fugitive was "heeled" for a long chase.

At the lovely family home on Huguenot Street yesterday Mrs. W. L. Hall, one of the most charming and gracious entertainers of Fayetteville society, gave a reception and elegantly served full-course luncheon, complimentary to her sister, Miss Anita De Rose, of Wilmington, with the following other guests: Misses Jenkins and Maud Morgan, of Richmond, Va.; Elizabeth Calvert, of College Park, Md.; Frances MacRae, of Chapel Hill; Ellen and Elizabeth Underwood, Kate Broadfoot, Lillian Stocomb, Kate Hawley, Elizabeth and Fannie Williams.

Last night at their hospitable home on Rowan Street, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Williams gave a reception and card party in honor of Miss Patterson, of Baltimore, where the first prize was won by Miss Elizabeth Brady and the "booby" by Miss Calvert, of Maryland.

FROM WILMINGTON

Resignation of Rev. D. P. McGeachy, Well Known in Pender County.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
WILMINGTON, N. C., February 7.—Rev. D. P. McGeachy, of Burgaw, N. C., pastor of a group of Presbyterian churches in Pender county, has resigned and accepted a position as agent of the Twentieth Century Fund of the North Carolina Synod. Mr. McGeachy was county superintendent of schools.

Last night the ladies of the First Presbyterian Church, of this city gave a delightful and most successful course supper in honor of the male members of the congregation. The guests numbered 150, and it was one of the most pleasant church affairs given in Wilmington in some time.

Mrs. Susan Dasher, an aged lady of Southport, died yesterday in the seventy-ninth year of her age.

Another sad death at Southport yesterday was that of Mrs. Mary Burris, widow of Captain Joseph Burris, and mother of Captain O. D. Burris, of the steamer Southport.

FINE OFFER TO PUPILS

Sons of American Revolution to Give Gold Prize.

TO STIMULATE STUDY
Open to All High School Graduates of State Who Write Essay on Some Subject Relating to Revolutionary War—The Conditions.

The Society of the Sons of the American Revolution have made an offer intended to stimulate study by the Virginia high school pupils in subjects relating to the Revolutionary war.

The committee from the Sons has sent the proposition and conditions to Dr. Joseph W. Southall, Superintendent of Public Instruction, to be transmitted by him to the high schools of the State.

The letter is given here:
January 28, 1908.
Dr. Joseph W. Southall, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Richmond, Va.:
Dear Sir,—The Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, of the State of Virginia, wishing to encourage the study of Virginia's Revolutionary history, makes a prize offer to the graduating class of 1908 of the public high schools of the State, a copy of which I herewith enclose.

If it meets with your approval, we shall be gratified if you will transmit the offer and the conditions through your office to the various high schools.

Yours respectfully,
ROBT. F. WILLIAMS, Chairman,
R. T. W. DUKE, JR.,
CHARLES R. ROBINS, Committee.

THE CONDITIONS.
The proposition and conditions are fair and attractive.

The Society of the Sons of the American Revolution in the State of Virginia offers a prize of twenty-five dollars in gold for the best essay written on a Revolutionary subject by any member of the graduating class of 1908 of the public high schools of the State, subject to the following conditions:

The general subject is limited to the part played in the Revolution by Virginia or Virginians.

The special subject may be selected from any of the following divisions: (1) Causative or preliminary conditions; (2) Period of active warfare; (3) Post-bellum period antedating the permanent establishment of the republic; (4) Biographical sketches.

As the influence and participation of George Washington, Thomas Jefferson and Patrick Henry have been very thoroughly written and published, these will be excluded from the list of permissible subjects.

Essays must not be less than 3,000 words nor more than 8,000 words, and must be typewritten on one side of the paper only.

Essays must be signed with a non de plume, and accompanied by a sealed envelope bearing the non de plume and containing the name and address of the writer. They must also be accompanied by a certificate from the principal of the high school attended, stating that the writer is a member of the graduating class of 1908.

All essays shall be the property of the Virginia Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

Essays must be sent to Dr. Charles R. Robins, Secretary, No. 17 North Fifth Street, Richmond, Va., and must be received by July 4, 1908.

The following gentlemen have consented to act as the committee to award the prize: Judge R. T. W. Duke, Hon. James Albin Cabell, Hon. S. B. Smith, Mr. E. Kidder Meade, and Mr. J. S. Blackburn.
